International Relations Research Institute (Warsaw)

BEGINNINGS

The first issue of International Relations Monthly Magazine was published in July 1999. With no substantial capital and editor's office Michał Sikorski has created popular magazine with the help of people of whom many have been cooperating with the magazine since its creation.

ORIGINS OF THE INSTITUTE

After a few years of the magazine's presence on the market appeared a need for formalization of publishing. People collaborating with the magazine, who have made themselves known as specialists, decided to bring a new institution to life. In June 2003 a foundation named Research Institute of International Relations was registered, which is a publisher International Relations Monthly Magazine.

MISSION

Our Institute has gained renown of an independent think-tank. We have no connections with any political party or organization. Moreover, we have never taken any public donation. Our aim is to propagate knowledge in the field of international relations and related sciences, to increase a consciousness in the field of international relations and related sciences, to make and finance researches and events in the field of international relations and related sciences.

ACTIVITY

People connected with the Institute publish in International Relations Magazine and in Stosunki.pl portal, the biggest Polish portal which deals with international affairs. Every year we organize over a dozen of debates and scientific conferences. We also organize research and training trips abroad, our journalists travel with the President and the Prime Minister during their official visits in foreign countries.

OBSERVATORY MISSIONS

Another important activity undertaken by our Institute is organization of observatory missions – we have already been in Ukraine and Belarus.

MEDIA

Specialists who cooperate with the Institute are regularly invited to comment on the news in Polish and foreign media. We are quoted more than 20 times every month.

FINANCE

The active existence of the International Relations Research Institute is possible owing to the profit made on sale of our publications, it is also dependent on private donations. We hope for your assistance. Superintendence of the Institute's activity is performed by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.
